

A Prayer for the Offering of Work

Written as a corporate prayer

Lord, we bring before you today the fruit of our labour – the work of our hands. We confess that more often than not, we take pride in our work to a fault, doing what we can to draw attention to ourselves and to our own abilities.

We ask today that you would re-orient the direction of our praise – lifting our eyes to the One who brings forth every good and perfect gift.

Take the works our hands, both big and small, and use them for your kingdom purposes.

Thank you that you join us by your Spirit in our work. Thank you that because of your grace, our labour is never in vein.

We ask that you continue to teach us how to be workers in your Kingdom; ever mindful of the rhythms of grace that you kindly invite us into.

We pray these things in the name of the One who is worthy of our work,
Amen.

Written by: Jared Cook